FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Crypto Zeus Statement

Singapore - April 4 - Crypto Zeus ex-employee was mentioned in the media in connection to Venezuelan cryptocurrency Petro through the last couple of weeks.

President Trump has recently banned this newly issued cryptocurrency.

The top-management of the company officially states that Crypto Zeus has no business with Venezuelan cryptocurrency emission and development. Our former employee was privately engaged by a third party to provide technology expertise on this project while breaking the code of conduct of our company.

Crypto Zeus team has a unique expertise at the cross-section of classic finance and crypto, and our employees are being in high demand all over the world. However, we have never outsourced this expertise to questionable parties by any company representative.

We have no plans to include Venezuelan cryptocurrency Petro token to trade at Crypto Zeus trading platform, as well as any other restricted cryptocurrency. This restriction extends to all future customers of the platform, all employees, partners and contractors, and to all activities on Crypto Zeus platform and any other Crypto Zeus related services. Our compliance standards are based on fulfillment of all applicable legal and regulatory requirements and restrictions.

On behalf of Crypto Zeus
Olga Duka, CEO of the company
